

HONORS IN ACTION

Honors in Action was developed by Phi Theta Kappa to support its mission to develop opportunities for college students to grow as scholars and leaders. The program allows students to identify issues confronting humanity, consider ideas from varied perspectives, apply what they learn to address a real-world, complex issue, develop collaborative partnerships, exercise leadership, and reflect on the outcomes of their projects.

ACT AND SERVE

Identify collaborators on campus and in the community and execute the plan of action.

Develop a plan of action to investigate academic sources related to your research question.

STRATEGIZE AND LEAD

Consider how research findings manifest locally, identify a real-world problem requiring both leadership and action, and brainstorm possible solutions to the problem.

Develop a plan of action to address the local problem identified by Honors Study Topic research findings.

Develop a research question to guide the Honors Study Topic investigation.

INVESTIGATE AND ANALYZE

Review the Honors Program Guide and plan research into a specific theme related to Phi Theta Kappa's biennial Honors Study Topic.

ASSESS AND REFLECT

Evaluate the research and action success of the project and assess scholarship and teamwork throughout the Honors in Action process. Write, edit, and submit your team's Honors in Action Hallmark Award entry.
